

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for measuring stress forces in refiners is disclosed. In the method, a measuring surface which is a portion of at least one refining surface containing at least a portion of the bars extending across that surface is resiliently mounted in the refining surface, and the stress forces are measured perpendicular to the measuring surface.

518738_1.DOC